

A Picture of Venice.

A letter from Venice, of October 4, says:

I have now been here a fortnight, and shall never forget that time as long as I live, so dull and monotonous has it been. Have you ever taken a walk to Vincennes on a week day? If you have, of course you saw none but soldiers. It is just the same here; as, with the exception of a few petty traders people and artisans, nothing but uniforms can be seen in the streets of Venice. Where are the nobles and wealthy citizens? They all keep within doors, and Austria would very much like to know what they say and do. I am as ignorant as she is on that point, as all houses of any importance have become so many citadels, into which there is no admittance without good letters of introduction, and I brought none with me. All I have learned is therefore limited to what I have seen with my own eyes or picked up in conversation with ciceroni and gondoliers. As soon as these people are certain that they are speaking to a foreigner, especially a Frenchman, they throw off the restraint, I assure you, and make no secret of their feelings and hopes. They think liberty so near as to be already in their possession, and are convinced that the hour of deliverance has struck. I have several times given mortal offence by venturing to insinuate that there would not perhaps be any great change in Venice before next spring. At Venice the state of war is not posted on the walls; it is in the very air you breathe. No imperial receipt has forbidden the inhabitants to frequent the theater of La Fenice, but for two years past nobody goes to it.

There has been no curfew proclaimed, and yet after nightfall there is not a living thing in the streets but patrols. The Austrians do not like this state of things any more than the Venetians do; they are no longer arrogant even; they are uneasy, gloomy, silent, and even attempt to appear polite. All the coffee houses in the city have been tacitly abandoned to them, with the single exception of the Florian, where foreigners and Venetians meet, under pretext of business. They appear to have accepted this arrangement, for though I went to the Florian every night, I never saw a uniform or heard of a German there. One remarkable fact is that, with the exception of a few invalids, not a single young man, from eighteen to twenty-five, is to be seen in Venice; they have all fled to avoid the conscription. I have been told that there are 8,000 of them with Garibaldi, and at least as many in Victor Emanuel's army. Austria at first imposed on families, and then on the communes, a fine of from 2,400 to 4,000 for each absent conscript. This measure caused many bitter tears to flow at first, but it has now become illusory, since, as neither families nor communes possess anything, they cannot pay. The very excess of the evil has put an end to it. The same may be said of the taxes; there was great suffering when the government demanded one half or one-fourth of everybody's income; but there is less now, the demand is equal to the whole, or even double and triple the amount. People have simply ceased to pay, that is all.

Wilhelm Rustow, the Garibaldian officer who acted a principal part in the unfortunate affair of Cajazzo, on September 22d, has published in The German General Gazette of Leipzig a detailed account, whence it appears that the Neapolitans had shot down the horses of his artillery, which he and his staff had personally to drag back, since the Sicilians serving under his command refused to leave the ditch where they lay concealed. When he ordered them to deploy in front, on the main road, against the Neapolitan cavalry, they turned their backs, dismounted, and took to their heels. Rustow says that he, being the chief Garibaldian staff, had from the first opposed the demonstration on the Volturno, but, receiving precise orders which allowed him no longer to hesitate, he tried to make the best of a bad case. The English correspondents, writing under the influence of Hungarian officers, have most unjustly faulted Rustow. Wilhelm Rustow, born in 1821, descendant from an old nobiliary family in Pomerania, entered in 1838 the Prussian military service, and was in 1840 appointed lieutenant in the corps of engineers. His revolutionary ideas involved him in 1848 in collision with the Montefeltre cabinet, which ordered judicial steps to be taken against him because of his pamphlet, "The German Military state before and after the revolution of 1848." Found guilty, he took refuge in Switzerland, where he soon distinguished himself as a military writer. His lectures at the University of Zurich, on tactics and strategy, soon attracted the attention of the competent Swiss authorities, and, since 1853, he was always attached as instructor wherever military maneuvers on a large scale were executed by the Federal troops. In 1858, he received the right of citizenship from the Canton of Zurich, and was soon after appointed Mayor and in the engineer staff. He left his position and repaired to Naples on the express invitation of Garibaldi. Of his military publications, which follow each other perhaps too uninterruptedly, the most important are: "The History of Modern Greek Warfare," "The Army and the Wars of Julius Caesar," "The War against Russia 1855-56," "The Late Italian War," "Generalship in the 19th Century," "Military Biographies," "The Science of Modern Fortification—Warfare," "Military Dictionary from a standpoint of the present literature." Wilhelm Rustow ranks among the first contemporaneous military authors, and from the services he has already done in Garibaldi's general staff, as well as the personal courage, decision, and presence of mind, he displayed during the unhappy catastrophe at Cajazzo, he bids fair to appear one day as strong in the battle-field as in his study.

ASTONISHING POTATO CROP.—The potato crop of Iowa, for the present year, is reported to be truly astonishing. The yield in some instances comes up to 400 and 500 bushels to the acre, and the general average is not much less than 200. The quality of the potatoes is better than usual, and far exceeds the best raised in any country we have ever visited. It is not uncommon to find them weighing a pound each, and some that we have seen weighed three, four and five pounds. Not a sign of rot or imperfection has been discovered. So plenty and cheap are they, that for the past week many loads have sold at ten cents per bushel. No danger of starving in Iowa at this season.

Two hundred and eighty-one thousand bushels of corn were sold at Portsmouth, Ohio, within the last two weeks. New Corn sells at 30 cents a bushel.

John M. Botts at Lynchburg.

Hon. John M. Botts, of Richmond, an eccentric but acute politician, recently made a speech at Lynchburg, Va. Some passages in it we think, must have told with effect upon a Virginia audience. After discussing the right of slave states to secede, he said:

"I have been talking about the right to dissolve the Union. I now come to the power to do so. Have you the power to secede? If the United States Government, numbering 32,000,000 people, is clothed with the power I think it is, and that Madison said it was, and which you find during the Administration of General Jackson it actually was, I think it would be a very difficult matter to oppose or resist the United States. There are 32,000,000 of inhabitants including black and whites, and I suppose about 28,000,000 free whites in the United States.

We are in the habit of hearing gentlemen on the 4th of July, making patriotic speeches, declaring that the government of the United States is able and ready to cope with the world in arms if necessary; and yet it has not the power to resist little South Carolina. [Applause.] This is blowing hot and cold in the same breath—it does not dovetail together well.

What is the power and what are the resources of the United States? When you talk about all the Southern States combined competing with the Federal Government, it is all moonshine and nonsense when you come to put it into practical operation.

Suppose you all go out, what do you carry? You carry nothing, but you leave everything behind you. You leave the Public Treasury. There is not much of that just now, however, under Mr. Buchanan's Administration; but it is coming in by degrees. [Laughter.] You leave the army, the navy, the public lands, the fortifications, all the dockyards, all the public property of every description, munitions of war and all. And what have you got to fight with?

Virginia could not furnish clothes for her men. It has taken all our money to hang John Brown and his confederates. [Laughter.] What do you propose to carry out with you? Nothing. And what will you fight upon? Nothing. Alabama is in a state of actual starvation. She had to call the Legislature to provide the common necessities of life for the people.

I will tell you my opinion on the subject. I mean no personal disrespect to any gentleman. I doubt not as Mark Anthony said of Brutus, they are all honorable men; men who are very bold, chivalric and patriotic; possessing any amount of physical courage; but I do say, a more base, unmanly and cowardly proposition was never submitted to an intelligent people on the face of the earth. [Applause.] What is their proposition? It is to run away, not only before we are whipped, but before we are even struck a blow. [Great Applause.]

"THE CONTENTS OF THEM KEYS."—Lawyer—Mr. Sargent, were you ever in Ben Kimball's bar room? Witness—Yes, sir. L.—Did you ever see anything containing liquor there? W.—Not as I know of. L.—Well, did you ever see any kegs or barrels there? W.—Yes, I saw some kegs. L.—Ah, yes, (exultingly,) you did, then! Now, sir, tell this jury what was in these kegs. W.—I don't know. I didn't look in. L.—Yes, sir, but were there no marks upon the outside—tickets, or labels, or printing, or writing of some kind? W.—Yes, well there was. I remember it now. I saw, I should have forgotten it, if you hadn't reminded me! L.—Oh, yes, you do, then; just state them, sir, before you forget, what was there printed, or written? W.—It was different on all of 'em; none had it alike. L.—Well, sir, tell us what it said on the first one you saw? W.—Well, I almost forgot it now, but I believe it said Gin on the first 'un. L.—Gin! Then, sir, I guess we can find out what there was in these kegs, if you didn't look in. Now, sir, you will tell what it said on the next one? W.—Well, on the next one it said Ben Kimball, but I don't s'pose Ben Kimball was inside the keg.

VIRGINIA ARMING.—We learn through a private channel that the attempt to raise a company of "Minute Men" at Richmond, Va., originated in a quarrel which, so far from entailing the movement to respect, has brought it into general contempt. A friend writes us that "All sensible men are quietly laughing at the matter. Virginia is prepared unanimously to resist any invasion on her rights, but her people are not disposed to organize an armed resistance to men of straw, that every popinjay politician or disappointed demagogue may set up as target. The present movement is in reality too contemptible, when its origin is known, for notice; but before this reaches you, its author may telegraph to the Herald that Virginia is arming for resistance. In fact, some ambitious tailor has commented his windows with the terrible traitors of the New York press will no doubt soon announce this fact with all the alarming portents of capitals.—New York Times.

Last winter a little boy of six or eight years, begged a lady to allow him to clean away the snow from her steps. He had no father or mother, but worked his way by such jobs. On being questioned, he confessed that he often got little to do, and the lady further asked, if he did not fear that he could not get on. The child looked up with perplexing and inquiring eyes, as if uncertain of her meaning, and troubled with a new doubt. "Why," said he, "don't you think God will take care of a little fellow, if he puts his trust in Him, and does the best he can?"

Mrs. Sarah Thompson, aged 55 years, drowned herself at Buffalo, on Tuesday morning, while in a state of mental derangement. Mrs. T. had been under for some time, and had slept with her daughter and servant girl. On the morning in question she got out of bed unnoticed, went to the cistern, took off the cover, and went in, drawing the cover on again. Her body was found at seven o'clock, yet warm to death.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

A compound remedy, designed to be the most effectual alterative that can be made. It is a concentrated extract of Para Sarsaparilla, so combined with other substances of still greater alterative power as to afford an effective antidote for the diseases Sarsaparilla is reputed to cure. It is believed that such a remedy is wanted by those who suffer from Strumous complaints, and that one which will accomplish their cure must prove of immense service to this large class of our afflicted fellow-citizens. How completely this compound will do it has been proved by experiment on many of the worst cases to be found of the following complaints:

SCROFULA AND SCROFULOUS COMPLAINTS, Eruptions and Eruptive Diseases, ULCERS, PIMPLES, BLOTCHES, TUMORS, SALT RHEUM, SCALD HEAD, STYLLITIS AND STYLLITIC AFFECTIONS, MANCERNA, DYSPEPSIA, DROPSY, NEURALGIA OR TIC DOULOUREUX, DEBILITY, DYSPPEPSIA AND INDIGESTION, ERYSIPELAS, ROSE OR ST. ANTHONY'S FIRE, and indeed the whole class of complaints arising from IMPURITY OF THE BLOOD.

This compound will be found a great promoter of health, when taken in the spring, to expel the four humors which foster in the blood at that season of the year. By the timely expulsion of them many making disorders are nipped in the bud. Multitudes can, by the aid of this remedy, spare themselves from the endurance of foul eruptions and ulcerous sores, through which the system will strive to rid itself of corrupt matter not assisted to do so through the natural channels of the body by an alterative medicine. Cleanse out the vitiated blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in pimples, eruptions, or sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it whenever it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Even where no particular disorder is felt, people enjoy better health, and live longer, for cleansing the blood. Keep the blood healthy, and all is well; but with this purifier of life disordered, there can be no lasting health. Sooner or later something must go wrong, and the great machinery of life is disordered or overturned.

Sarsaparilla, however, deserves much, the reputation of accomplishing these ends. But the world has been egregiously deceived by preparations of it, partly because the drug alone has not all the virtue that is claimed for it, but more because many preparations, pretending to be concentrated extracts of it, contain but little of the virtue of Sarsaparilla, or any thing else.

During late years the public have been misled by large bottles, pretending to give a quart of Extract of Sarsaparilla for one dollar. Most of these have been frauds upon the sick, for they not only contain little, if any, Sarsaparilla, but often no curative properties whatever. Hence, bitter and painful disappointment has followed vain efforts to cure various diseases. Sarsaparilla which flooded the market, until the name itself is justly despised, and has become synonymous with imposition and cheat. Still we call this compound Sarsaparilla, and intend to supply such a remedy as will restore the name from the land of obloquy which rests upon it. And we think we have ground for believing its virtues which are irresistible by the ordinary run of the diseases it is intended to cure. In order to complete its efficacy, eradication from the system, the remedy should be judiciously taken according to directions on the bottle.

DR. J. C. AYER & CO.
LOWELL, MASS.
Price, $1 per Bottle; Six Bottles for $5.
Ayer's Cherry Pectoral
has won for itself such a renown for the cure of every variety of Throat and Lung Complaint, that it is entirely unnecessary to say to recount the evidence of its virtues, wherever it has been employed. As it has long been in constant use throughout this section, we need not do more than assure the people its quality is kept up to the best it ever has been, and it may be relied on to do for their relief all that it has ever been found to do.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,

Blood Purifier and Blood Pills.

ORIGINAL PATENT
DR. ROBACK'S
Scandinavian Remedies.

WHEN Dr. ROBACK, the celebrated Swedish Physician, introduced his Blood Purifier and Blood Pills in the United States, he set forth in plain language their curative properties. This was years ago. The task of recommending them has since been taken out of his hands.
Enlightenment upon whose character for sound judgment and philosophy gives their opinions weight in the community, men who observe, reflect, and make "assurance doubly sure," before they decide upon any remedy for improving and curing the use of these wonderful Preparations. All who conside in the wisdom and honesty of this class, or who chose to investigate for themselves are now of one mind on this important subject.

Dr. Roback invites the attention of the sick the

Contain no Minerals;
That they cure the almost universal complaint,
Dyspepsia
with unerring certainty, and in a very short time. That after all other medicines have proved useless, they relieve the sufferer.

Sick Females.
Those who languish for years in helpless weakness and despondency, recuperate with great rapidity after their invigorating operation. That all sexual diseases are removed by their cordial and gently stimulating properties. That they recruit

Shattered Constitutions, however they may have been trified with and abused; that their direct tendency is to lengthen life and render it re-joiceable. That operating directly upon the source of disease in the blood, they administered before a very critical life has been invaded), effect a permanent cure.

Bear in mind that the Scandinavian Vegetable Blood Pills are endorsed by the highest medical authorities, and are the result of the most careful and scientific investigation, and are the best of the kind.

No one can doubt their superiority over any single pills, or any other medicine, but in fact, cheaper than any other Pills, for it takes a less number of them to produce a better effect.

From Rev. Mr. McMillen, Pastor of Roberts Church, INDIANAPOLIS, October 6, 1857.
Dr. C. W. Roback—Dear Sir: I have used your Blood Purifier for a nervous affection, from which I have suffered much at times. It has done me much good. I have accepted your kind offer of a copy of your Almanac, and thank you for your kind regards, and believe me, Yours,
J. M. McMillen
